

Franciele C. S. Parolini

Human Movement System Re(habilitation)

Degree in Physiotherapy, post graduate in trauma orthopedics with emphasis on manual therapy, M.Sc. in intervention processes, prevention and rehabilitation in the musculoskeletal system, with publications of articles on experimental studies and meta-analysis. Distance tutor at the University of Araxa-MG, Brazil, in the disciplines of sports and sports for special populations, invited trainer of the auxiliary course in Physiotherapy, and sports massage, by the Mente Advanced school - Specialized Technical Training School in the Area of Health and Education, Lisbon.

Currently a doctoral student in Physiotherapy at the Faculty of Sport of the University of Porto, researcher at the FCT at CIR (Rehabilitation and Research Center ESS.P-PORTO) and at LABIOMEPE (biomechanics laboratory of Porto, FADEUP.U-PORTO), with projects about, experimentally induced acute pain, analyzed through d.EMG and other variables

Orcid; 0000-0001-6765-6475

Ciencia-ID: 7A15-D089-9627

Email: franciele_carvalho_santos@hotmail.com